“Lexophile” describes those who have a love for words, such as “you can tune a piano but you can’t tuna fish”

“I’m reading a book about anti-gravity. I just can’t put it down.”

“I didn’t like my beard at first. Then it grew on me.”

“I stayed up all night to see where the sun went, and then it dawned on me.”

“I changed my iPod’s name to Titanic. It’s syncing now.”

“England has no kidney bank, but it does have a Liverpool.”

“I know a guy who’s addicted to drinking brake fluid, but he says he can stop any time.”

“A thief who stole a calendar got twelve months.”

“Did you hear about the fellow whose entire left side was cut off? He’s all right now.”

“Acupuncture is a jab well done. That’s the point of it.”

“To write with a broken pencil is pointless.”

While golfing, I took a quick turn to avoid hitting a hole, and accidentally overturned my golf cart.

A beautiful and attractive woman, who lived right there on the edge of the gold course, heard the noise, came running out of her villa and shouted, “Are you okay?”

As I looked up I noticed she was wearing only a silky, see-through bath robe which was partially open, revealing a VERY nice figure.

“I’m okay, I think” I replied as I pulled myself out from under the twisted cart.

She said, “Please follow me to my villa so I can clean and bandage that nasty scrape on your head. Then you can rest awhile, and I’ll help you upright the cart later.”

That’s mighty nice of you,” I answered, “but I don’t think my wife would like me doing that!”

“Oh, come on now,” she insisted. “We need to see if you have any more cuts or scrapes, and treat them.” She was really pretty, and very, very persuasive.

Being sort of shaken and weak, I finally agreed, but repeated, “I’m sure my wife won’t like this.”

We walked to her place, just 100 yards away, and after a couple of Scotch and waters and the bandaging, I thanked her and said, “I feel a lot better now, but I know my wife is going to be really upset, so I’d better go.”

“Don’t be silly!” she said with a smile, letting her robe fall even more open. “Stay for awhile. She won’t know anything. By the way, where is she?”

I replied, “Still under the cart, I guess.”
